Book Report THE QUEEN GENE Author Jennifer Coburn

Everyone always envied Jennifer, her theatre-savvy, drama queen of a mother, but Jennifer knew how difficult it was growing up with a mother who didn't want to take her child to the Zoo because the "animals did not put on a good show". As Jennifer became an adult she had to compete with her mother for her male friends. You see her mother's figure was as good as or better than Jennifer's.

Then there was her mother's teacup Chihuahua. Anjoli (the mother) took the dog everywhere, mostly inside her purse, with her cell phone in close proximity. Too often the dog's paw would call Jennifer on the cell phone. As well, Jennifer could be sure to get at least 10 calls from her mother who was in a crisis daily.

This laugh a minute book is available now at the library. Definitely for the ladies who have daughters or who are daughters, or even if you know a daughter. You will see your own situation with your mother or your daughter clearly, but also be able to laugh at yourself.

Come in on Thurs night 7-9 or Sat. morning 10-12
